'the improvement should create a renewed interest'

Extensive changes in the performing arts facilities of ONU are planned for the near future. Presently, the Department of Speech and Theater utilized the Studio Theater and Lehr Auditorium for their productions. In addition to several plays, Lehr Auditorium played host to many concerts sponsored by the Department of Music. However, according to the plan developed by the performing Arts planning Committee, each department will have facilities tailored more for their own needs.

For the Department of Speech and Theater a new theater building of approximately 25,000 square feet with a seating capacity of 300 to 350 is planned. However, a definite date has not been set for the ground breaking. The plans include a Multi Mode Theater, which can be used as a proscenium or thrust stage, depending upon the production.

Lehr Auditorium will undergo renovation in order to convert it to a modern concert hall for the Department of Music. Changes include slanting the 600 seats for improved accoustics, addition of an orchestra pit, and enlarging the stage itself. Also included in the list of changes is a renovation of the present auditorium-practice hall in Presser into a small recital hall. Tracey Riegle, a sophomore music major, said, "The improvement should create a renewed interest (in the performing arts)."

good idea'*

Curriculum revisions always make students uneasy and pharmacy students are no exception to the rule. When it was made known that the College of Pharmacy was planning revisions in the curriculum, students were concerned about how the changes would affect them. Dr. Donald Stansloski allayed many of these concerns when he described the changes as an "adjustment in nature rather than sweeping broad changes." Most of the changes involved a reorganization of course material into a more effective format. In fact, some of the change has been incorporated into the present curriculum whenever possible. One change involves the moving of physiology from a third year course to a second year course. Although the change will not affect any students currently enrolled in pharmacy, Bill McConnell, a second year pharmit, said, "Having physiology your second year is really a good idea because you have biology your first year and then you will go directly into physiology."

'it is so risky applying'

"I'm glad I'm in the prelaw program because it makes you feel much more secure to know that you are guaranteed a place in at least one law school." The prelaw program can help relieve much of the anxiety associated with gaining admission to a law school, as the above comment by senior psychology, sociology, and prelaw major Tom Tompkins illustrates. Undergraduates who elect to complete the 36 quarter hours of the "prelaw core" and maintain an overall grade point average of 3.3 are automatically admitted to the Pettit College of Law. As Tom Tompkins said, "I think it is a good program because it is so risky applying to other places."

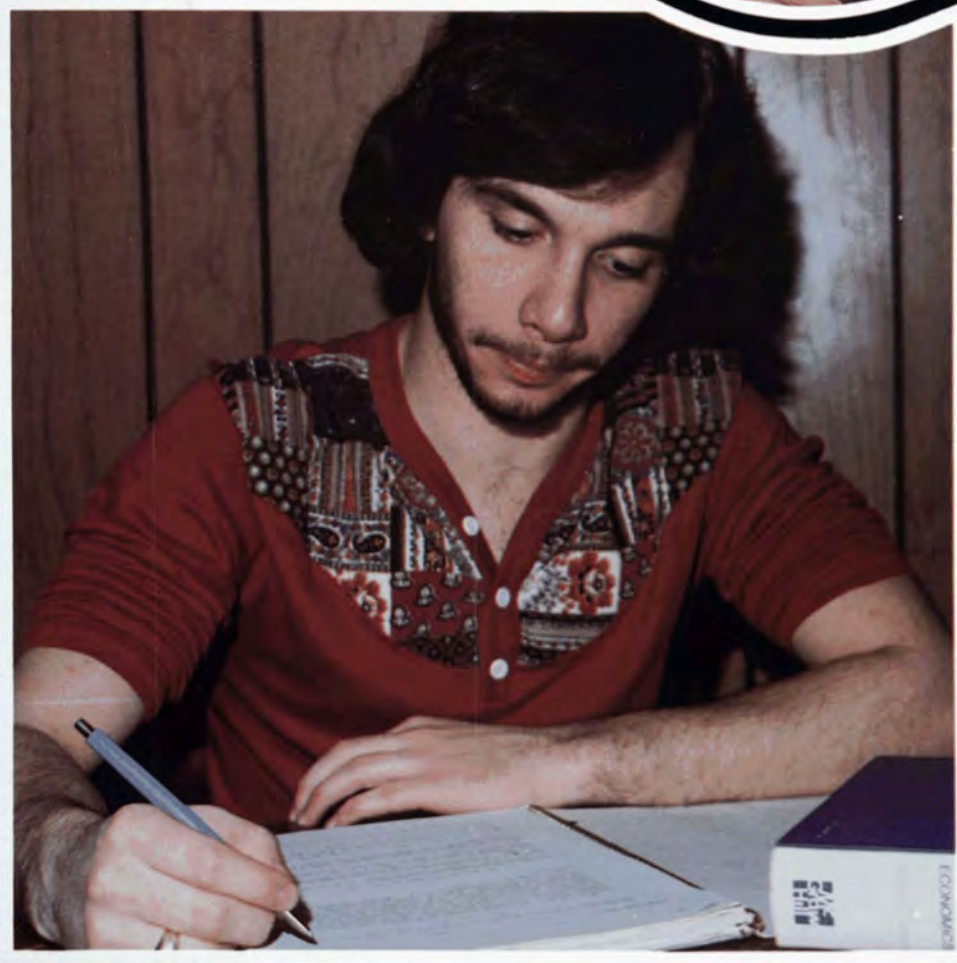

In another matter related to the College of Law, in the fall of 1980 plans were announced for the expansion of the Tilton Hall of Law. The 16,800 square feet addition will nearly double the capacity of the law library. Other features of the expanded library will include study carrels and increased storage space. In addition to the expanded library, the proposed addition will have rooms for student organizations and a conference room which will be open 24 hours a day.

'really go after it'

Authorized by the Board of Trustees in February, 1978, the College of Business Administration is the youngest of the five ONU colleges. College offices are housed in Hill Building which is the oldest structure on the campus. Jeff Habegger, a freshman management major, believes that the youthful age of the college is a strong attribute. Jeff believes that the highly experienced faculty members teach students "to learn what you can in the classroom, and then go out into the world and go after it!"

According to Dean Clyde Painter, "the growth of the college has been impressive. All faculty members previously were members of the Department of Business and Economics, before that department was officially established as a college." The college also serves many students from other academic disciplines. Those students, too, learn the theories and then "go after it."

'get to know other people'

University housing continues to be the dominant form of housing for university students, according to the Office of Resident Life. Approximately 59.8 percent of the student population resided in university housing during the 1980-81 academic year. The term "university housing" refers to the university dormitories, the fraternity houses, and the sorority houses. However, of the more than 1500 students living in university housing, more than 80 percent live in one of the eight major dorms. Clearly, dorm life touches a great number of ONU students.

Maria Parekh, a resident assistant (RA) in Clark Hall, enjoys living in a dorm. Part of her enjoyment comes from organizing special events for others in the hall. For example, during the Christmas season, Maria and Richanne Cunningham dressed as elves so that the girls could select the names of their Kriss Kringles for the gift exchange. But, Maria said that her main reason for being an RA and, therefore living in the dorm, was to "get to know other people."

The fact that only eleven percent of the student body lives in a fraternity or sorority house can be deceptive. Many students are members of a Greek social organization but are living in one of the dorms. During Greek Week, it was evident that many students were affiliated with a Greek house. Judging from the large turnout at the Sig Olympics on April 11, several ONU students may have found a way to enjoy the best of Greek and dorm life.

With more than 15 organizations, religious life offers a method of expression to every student. The University Religious Association Council with its president, Sue Werner, help to coordinate the groups' activities and offer an opportunity for exchange of ideas. Students from each of the five colleges and almost every major are associated with at least some aspect of religious life. Early in fall quarter several different URAC member organizations joined in presenting a Thursday Chapel service. The Puppet Theater under the leadership of Stephanie Welsh presented two short skits utilizing hand puppets which they had made. Director Chris Ferling and the Mime Troupe presented a performance based on the scriptures. Finally, the Chancel Singers under the direction of Karen Shook performed several of their pieces and closed the service with a song the group traditionally uses as a benediction, "A Closing Prayer."

Each of the three groups mentioned above travel to churches throughout the area to perform. For instance this year the Chancel Singers traveled to Millersburg, Groveport, Fort Wayne, and other cities. The group's depositions ever took them on an overnight trip to Wooster which included a hay ride, bonfire, and service at the sponsor church the following morning. Sandra Polins, a first year member of the group, said that through Chancel singers "I've found fellowship."

'it's one heck of an accomplishment'

Athletics offer an interesting combination of academic study and extra-curricular diversion. Many of the athletes who participate in one or more of the sports at ONU are majoring in education with plans for a coaching position some place in their future. However, most of the athletes at ONU are students who devote time to a sport because they enjoy it.

Combined, these athletes have captured several notable achievements for ONU. The women's volleyball team came home from the Division III National Finals in Spokane, Washington with a fine finish to make them the eighth best team in the nation. A second place finish in the state and a first place finish in the Western Satellite was captured by the women's basketball team. The wrestling team continued its string of championships by capturing its sixth consecutive OAC championship. Finally, an outstanding individual performance was turned in by junior Stan Mories when he became only the second player in ONU basketball history to become an All American. His coach, Gale Daughtery, ecstatic about Mories selection to the All American squad said, "I think it's one heck of an accomplishment." Considering the amount of time and dedication required of athletes, such praise should be extended to every athlete for their accomplishments, no matter how great or small.

story of the creation in modern language'*

Creation of the World and Other Business sparked a great deal of discussion on campus. The play, which, in the words of Darren Dazen, "put the story of the creation in modern language," portrayed God, the angels, and Lucifer with several human characteristics. Because these traditionally spiritual characters were portrayed in earthly terms, the cast could then give each character interesting human emotions. In a discussion following the play, when one student objected to God dancing, Rick Capasso replied, "The cast decided that what could be more expressive of God's joy when learning that Eve is with child, than a short dance."

rave on

The Michael Stanley Band rocked ONU students in King Horn Center on January 28, 1981 with cuts from their new album, "Heartland", and other favorite songs like "Strike up the Band" from the "Stagepass" album. T-shirts and buttons bearing the MSB logo were seen all over campus in the weeks prior to the concert as everyone looked forward to the big event. Most students departed the concert saying that MSB had given a great concert.

The Michael Stanley Band was selected to perform at ONU from a survey given to students on campus by the Campus Activities Board.

The freshmen flagpole rush and the pushmobile races took place on Saturday of Homecoming weekend. The freshmen lost the rush because there weren't enough people to get the bear-ie. This was fine with the Sophomores because it meant victory for them. The pushmobile races weren't so clear-cut. There was confusion over the rules, sparking heated arguments concerning the races.

Homecoming Saturday night saw the Great Lakes Band covering selections from the Stones, Springsteen, and other popular groups at the Homecoming Dance. The dance, the first in two years, was attended by about 100 people who crowded into the McIntosh Ballroom to dance the night away. Dan Weiss felt that the dance was, "A cosmic experience. It was one of the best bands we've had on campus for eons."

The Homecoming Parade, the first in many years, was quite an event. The spectators were treated to three marching bands, several Homecoming king and queen candidates, and numerous floats. The participants, however, didn't have a very good time, because as one marching band member commented, "It was cold, bitter cold."

dampen homecoming activities

Rain accompanied by chilling winds attempted to place a damper on a long list of homecoming activities during the week of October 19, 1980. However, due to the perseverance of ONU fans, most events were held regardless of the weather. The steady rain forced the cancellation of only one event, the torchlight parade, on Friday evening.

One event the foul weather could not spoil was the Homecoming Presentation Dance on Sunday night which was held in the Ballroom of McIntosh Center. A total of 20 candidates for king and queen were announced at the dance which featured the group, "Magazine." Then, on Friday evening, the field of 20 was reduced to only 8. Ann Campbell, a member of the homecoming committee, announced the finalists who were Patty Franceso, Karen Hillegass, Rami Holden, Janice Pilarczyk, Martin Massiello, Jay Meyer, Damir Pavicic, and Jim Wright.

The highlight of Saturdays activities was, of course, the Homecoming Football Game which pitted ONU against Ohio Wesleyan University. ONU made several trips up and down a slightly muddy field to claim a 40-14 victory for Queen Rami Holden and King Martin Massiello.

"it describes what we do"

The Department of Industrial Arts changed its name to the Department of Industrial Technology this year. The name change was made in order to give the department a similar title to institutions offering the same curriculum.

As Jim Sheperd, an Industrial Technology student, puts it, "It describes more of what we do." The Department of Industrial Technology is involved in more aspects of industry than the average student would suspect. Not only does the department have woodwork classes, it also offers courses in many other areas such as auto body repair, auto mechanics, plumbing, electrical wiring, welding, metal casting, as well as other areas.

The name change will not only attract more industrial technology students, but it will enable those students presently enrolled in the department to obtain better jobs following graduation.

music, music

'room for musical creativity'

One of ONUS most varied programs is its music department. A person has a choice of courses covering conducting to pep band. The music program is not restricted to music majors. Anyone with an interest can enroll in a class or group. Among the groups offered are Brass Ensemble, which tends towards renaissance, baroque, and some Twentieth Century music; Chorus, a fun group that handles any sort of music; Jazz Band, which won the Great Lakes Jazz Festival in Niagara Falls last year; and Chapel Choir, a group which sings religious music. There is a great deal of room for musical creativity in the department. Many of the groups play student-composed pieces, encourage improvisation, and support student conducting. Classes offered include Ear-Training, a class that teaches sight-singing and reading; American Music, a course covering native music up to jazz; and Form and Analysis, which studies the evolution of music and its styles.

campus chest

Campus Chest has become a Greek tradition here at ONU. All the sororities and fraternities join together to raise money for charity. Between the booths in McIntosh Center and the party auction at King Horn, a lot of money was made for a worthy cause. Campus Chest is also a lot of fun, if at times, messy, as can be seen in these pictures.

-Melanie Caw greek week

Greek Week can be found on almost any campus with a Greek system, and ONU is no exception. This past year Greek Week was extremely wet, but everyone still managed to have a good time.

A Greek softball game was supposed to get things started off on Sunday, but was rained out. Monday was letter day and Greek letters were dominant around campus. Wednesday brought the annual PMD Talent Show, and Thursday was the traditional Greek Sing. Friday looked like tackle football, but was only Derby Day. Saturday, the Sig Olympics and Greek Games were halted because of rain, but the roving party that night kept spirits high. All in all, it was a fun and successful week, and the Greeks are looking forward to Greek Week 1982.

The brothers were involved in ONU sports, such as football, basketball, baseball and track. The "Apes" also participated in intramural and IFC sports.

Fall quarter was busy with rush, a donut sale, parties and a spaghetti dinner. The sisters won the push-mobile race during Homecoming Week. The AOII's also participated in the Panhel Sr. Citizen Halloween party.

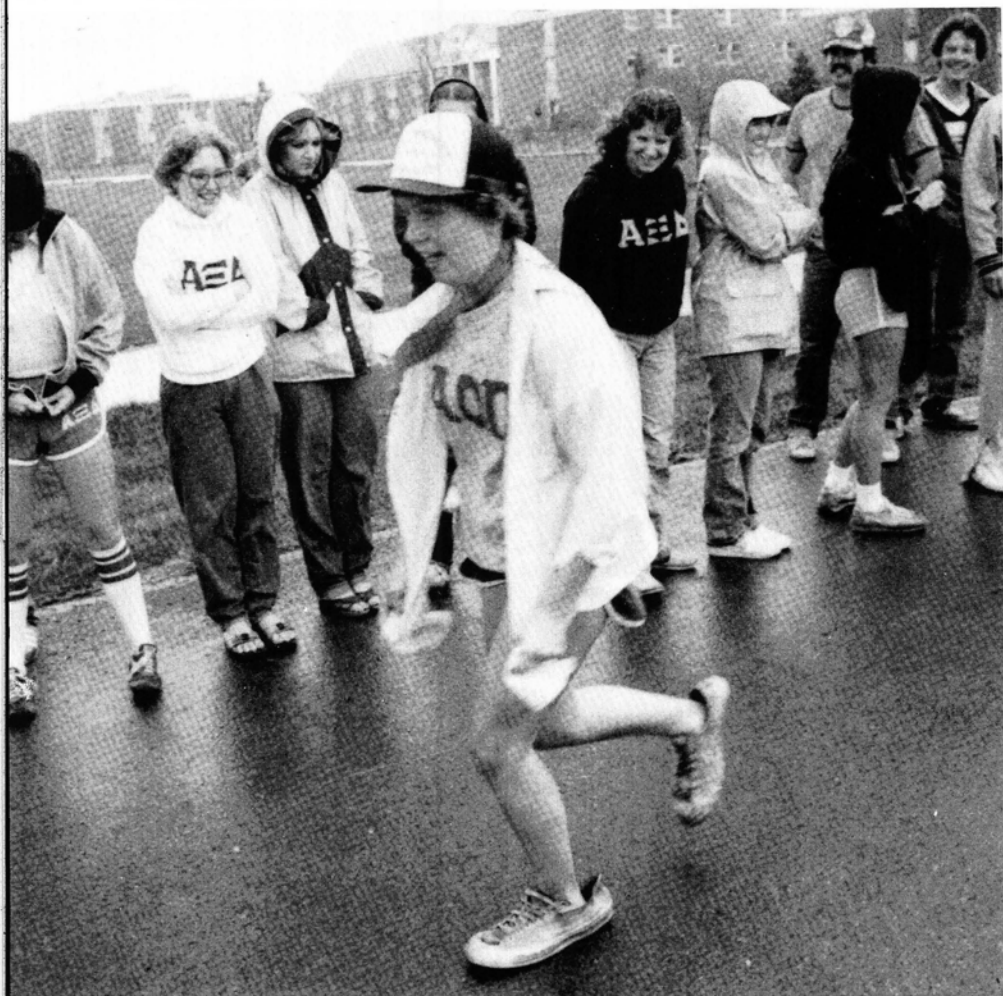

Winter quarter was a busy and productive one. The AOII's showed their Christmas spirit by caroling with the Alpha Xi's, and they held a Christmas party and gift exchange at their house. Other fun times were parties, pledge exchanges, and a pizza party. As usual, the AOII jail at Campus Chest did well, and Ami McClurkin was their candidate for Miss Campus Chest.

To wind down the school year, the AOII's held their spring formal at Mohican State Park. They participated enthusiastically in Greek Week, and also held their annual Parents' Day.

The Gamma Alpha chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi was installed at Ohio Northern in 1942 And 1980-81 was a successful year for the Sigs.

The brothers were active in IFC sports, and had twenty four members active in varsity sports at ONU.

For the second year the Sigs won the PMD Talent Show, with a combination of guitar playing and singing. Spring formal was enjoyed by everyone.

For the future, the Alpha Sigs are planning a number of service projects for the university and the village of Ada.

Winter quarter the Fuzzies gathered toys for tots and had a Christmas party for some Sr. Citizens. They also helped out with the Red Cross Bloodmobile. One extremely memorable event was the AZD-Delt Wedding Party where Sue Pawlak and John Schimmoller temporarily joined in holy matrimony.

Spring quarter brought the annual Rose formal which was held at Milano's in Lima. The Alpha Xi's supported Women's Week, and sister, Karen Soehnlen, was named Outstanding Woman. delta zeta

The sisters of Delta Zeta were involved around campus this past year. DZ's could be found in Mortar Board, little sis clubs, various honoraries, Student Senate, KE, SAPHa, AZO, and intramural sports.

Philanthropy, as always, played a large part in the sisterhood. Their major event, the 24-hour dance marathon, raised $700 for the Gallaudet College of the Deaf. They also held a UNICEF drive, visited senior citizens, went caroling at Christmas, and worked for the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Not forgetting scholarship, though, the sisters held a program each quarter to acknowledge academic achievement.

The DZ's also had a lot of fun times. Themeparties, a slave raffle, and winter and spring formals were enjoyed by the sisters. All these activities made the year an exciting and rewarding one for the DZ's.

The KY's were involved in a lot of campus activities, also. They had five members on Student Senate, 21 members on Sapha, and six members on IFC. The brothers also participated in intramural sports.

The KY's didn't neglect the social side of things, though. Winter formal and spring fling were especially enjoyable. And once again, the KY's pie-throwing booth was a top money-raiser for Campus Chest. phi kappa theta

"You can recognize them by their jackets," or the Phi Kappa Theta fraternity had another successful year. The brothers participated in several school activities such as IFC, sports and intramural sports.

The brothers held their Pledge Princess Dance, and their annual formal was enjoyed by all who attended.

With many new brothers and a growing little sis program the Phi Kaps are anticipating a good 1981-'82 school year.

The "House of the Lions" had another outstanding and successful year. The brothers of the Mu Beta chapter of Phi Mu Delta were involved in many activities. Some of these included: Student Senate, IFC, honoraries and CAB. The brothers also participated in many of the sports here at ONU.

The PMD's again held their talent show during Greek Week, which as always, was highly successful. For other fun times the brothers held theme parties, such as Hawaiian and Mountain Dew parties. Their winter and spring formals were also big successes.

Community service also played a large part in the fraternity. The PMD's went Christmas caroling for those in the Hardin County Home; they held an Easter party for orphans; and they planted trees around the Ada community.

With new brothers and a strong little sis program, the PMD's are expecting another good year.

The 1980-'81 school year for the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity was busy and productive. Fall quarter saw such activities as sub and spaghetti dinners at the house, theme parties, and a hay ride. The Sig Eps participated in Homecoming Week and placed first with their float, and second in the pushmobile race.

Winter quarter the brothers and their dates enjoyed a formal in Bel-fontaine. Other fun times included a hat party, a date party, a winter cook-out, and roller skating with the Golden Heart Little Sisses. During winter quarter the Sig Eps began a professor-pledge contact system to help their scholarship program. They also updated their file system and held a Scholarship Banquet in the spring.

Spring quarter was ushered in with the "End of the World Party," and concluded with a formal at Sawmill Creek on Lake Erie.

Sigma Pi prides itself on having a diverse, yet small, brotherhood. The small size of the fraternity makes Sigma Pi a true brotherhood, rather than just a fraternity full of men. The diversity enables the brothers of Sigma Pi to remain active in all parts of campus life.

Sigma Pi was well represented on Student Senate with two members, Dennis Barr and Mark Volpe. The Interfraternity Council also was supported by the Sig Pi's as four members were involved in various IFC committees.

Not only in student government, but also in ONU sports, will you find Sig Pi's participating. In 1980-81, brothers participated in football, track, swimming, and, as usual, soccer. ONU's successful soccer team had five Sig Pi's on it, including co-captain Phil Caris and manager Steve Liles.

Of course, Sigma Pi has many traditional events, this past year being no exception. The Sunrise Party, always a shining success, was held in December. The Orchid Ball, the annual Sigma Pi formal, was in January. The spring canoe and camping trip, also, was an enjoyable time for the brothers and their dates.

The Zeta Kappa chapter of Theta Chi was once again actively involved in campus life here at Northern. The brothers participated in IFC, intramurals, band, University Singers, theater productions, and many honorary organizations.

The Theta Chis were proud to hold their regional corral here at ONU in January. Brothers from four states participated, and our ONU chapter received an outstanding service award.

Spring quarter the Theta Chi's again placed first in Greek Sing. They also held their Sixth Annual Twenty-four Hour Marathon for the Western Ohio Lung Association, which was successful despite the rainy weather.

Kim Woodruff was named the brothers' Dream Girl at their spring formal.

zeta tau alpha

The Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority again had a busy and rewarding year and were involved in many campus and community activities.

Fall quarter found Rush successful with the Zeta's receiving 24 new pledges. Homecoming was special for them with their candidate, Rami Holden, being chosen Queen. To add to the excitement, Martin Massiello, a Zeta Big Brother, was chosen King.

Formal was the highlight of winter quarter, and Ralph Firestone was chosen as the ZTA sweetheart. For philanthropy the Zetas participated in the March of Dimes and Campus Chest.

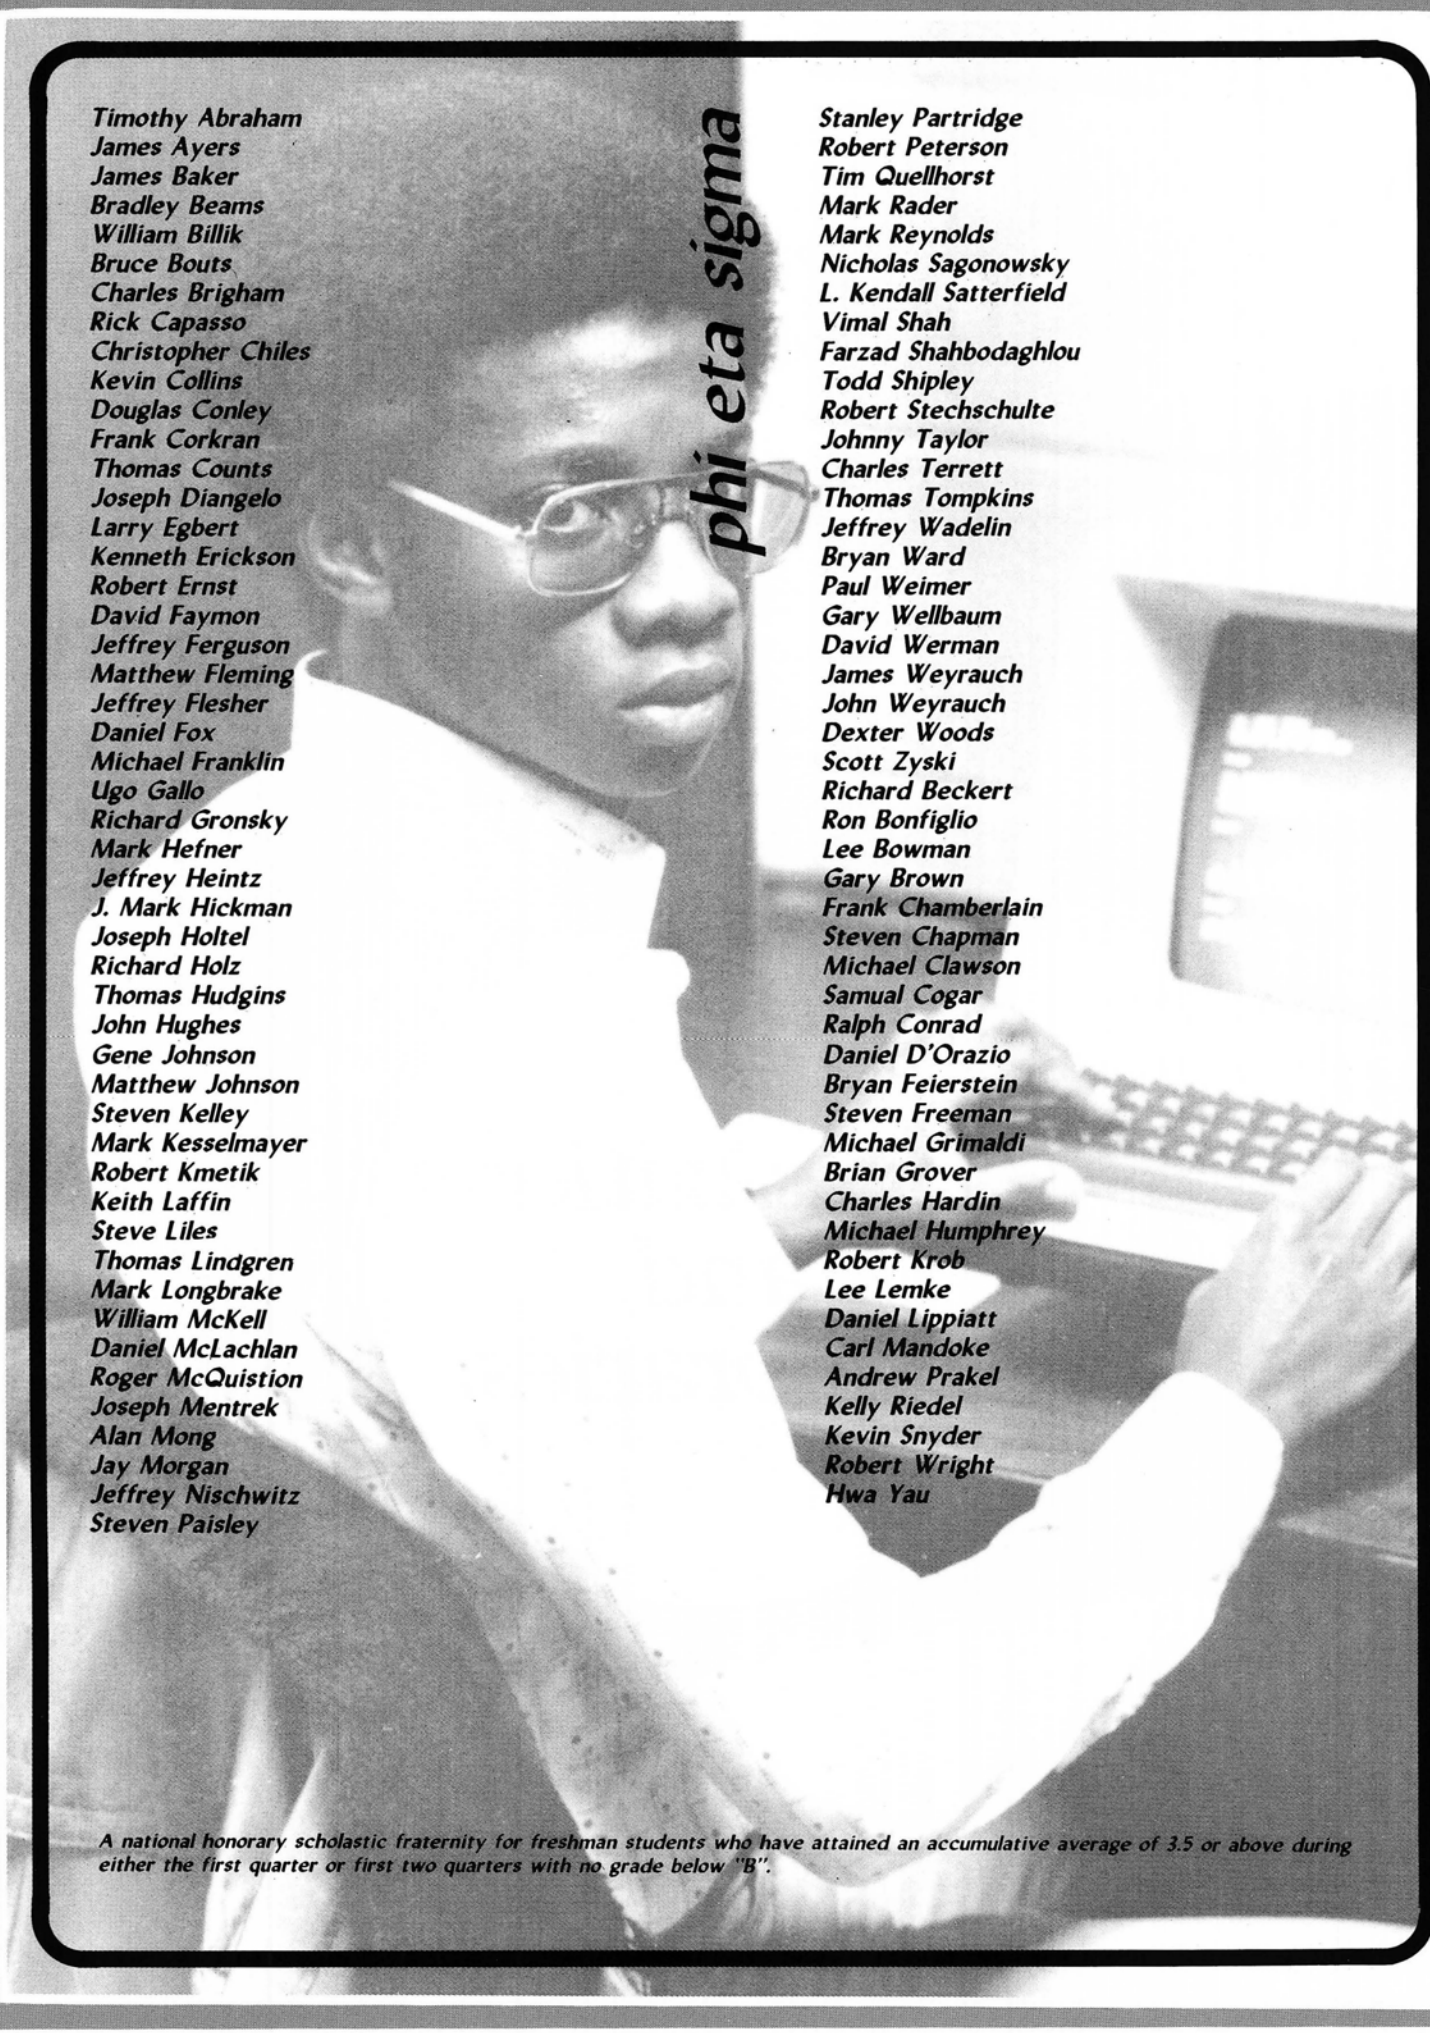

Spring quarter the Zetas actively participated in Greek Week and held their annual parents' tea. They also received the Pan-He1 and President's Awards for scholarship for the sixth year.

'a way to get to know others recognized in the same areas of interest and proficiency'

Mary Beth Smith

Whether they are professional or academic, all honoraries are basically the same in that they recognize and bring together people who are good at or interested in the same things. They have various activities. For example, the activities of one honorary, Mortar Board, included the Presidents Tea on September 14, 1980, a Halloween Party with Alpha Lambda Delta, the Campus Leaders Reception in November and Women's Day on March 19. Most honoraries have money making projects, such as selling donuts or balloons, to help pay for these activities.

... they help the future engineer get in touch with the real engineering world'

Bill Gorden

The ONU student chapter of national professional engineering organizations round out the engineering education of their members through various activities. The 1980-1981 year was kicked off with a fall picnic, followed by weekly meetings of ASME and monthly meetings of ASCE and IEEE. These meetings usually were highlighted by speakers who spoke on such topics as the new Ada sewage system, industrial robots, and plant engineering. To get a better idea of plant engineering, ASME took a plant trip to a steel mill, while IEEE toured Whirlpool of Findlay. Throughout the year, the various organizations have student conferences. The year culminated with ASCE's concrete canoe, a spring picnic, and Engineering Week, which was the week of March 23. This week included an open house, the ASME rat car race, and the engineering ball at the Milano Club in Lima.

'student government takes time and responsibility, but it is a good learning experience'

Joe Salmen

A good student government includes responsible students who get involved, a university president who is receptive to new ideas, such as President Freed, and hardworking officers, such as Tom Sands, former student senate president. Under Sand's direction during the 1980-1981 year, student representation, senate organization, and student control of the student activity funds were increased. Also, a bimonthly newspaper was started to keep the students involved. Sands was replaced by next year's president, Kevin Bush. Bush was elected after a re-voting because during the first election there were voting irregularities.

The journalism publications of ONU are its voice. This became the main idea of the new radio station in Ada. Our own WONU can be found on your radio at 640 AM and 90.9 FM. Having come on the air in January of 1981, WONU has successfully informed and entertained the ONU students through special programs that fit almost everyone's tastes. These programs ranged from sports to rock to classical music to news. The ONU voice also spoke through the weekly "Northern Review", the quarterly Polaris, and the Ampul. Of course, the final publication is speaking to you now in the form of the Northern.

general science clubs are interesting, educational and worthwhile but they don't receive much notoreity'

Patti Cowan

Clubs of the general sciences, such as Biology Club and Student Affiliate of the American Chemical Society, have not been extremely large in size, but have been active. Some of the activities of this past year included help sessions in chemistry and biology, a late September bike hike, camping trips, a trip to Columbus, and a mid-January cross country skiing trip. The main activity, however, was the weekly meetings which normally included speakers and/or movies on various topics, which ranged from wooden duck carving to bees.

ONU is well known for its College of Pharmacy. To round out their education, pharmacy students are active in various professional and social organizations. One of the major activities this past year was traveling. For example, Alpha Zeta Omega went to New Jersey March 4-6, 1981, to tour Squibb Drug Company; SAPHa sent representatives to its national convention; and the Drug Abuse Team traveled to high schools throughout Ohio and gave talks. Another major activity was service projects. Pharmacy Council not only sponsored its annual Pharmacy Day for prospective students, but also on April 15, a drug fair was sponsored for P-3's, P-4's, and P-5's. AZO sponsored a blood screening on March 21 and 28. They also sold daffodils for the American Cancer Society. Of course, there were also social events, such as having parties, traveling to Anheiser-Busch, Christmas shopping at the French market, and just getting together for an afternoon of hotdogs and frisbee throwing.

'the religious activities provide different channels of witnessing for Christians with talents'

Beth Graffling

Being a Methodist oriented university, Ohio Northern offers a wide variety of religious activities. The University Religious Association Council includes Unlimited Sharing, the Mime Troupe, Wesley Players, Chancel Singers, STE, Kappa Phi, Christian Legal Society, Puppet Team, Chapel Committee, and Concert Committee. All of these organizations were especially active during the 1980-1981 school year. Deputation groups performed throughout Ohio, while here at ONU various services were offered. URAC held three retreats, with the dates being October 31-November 1, January 30-31, and March 20-21. For those who wanted more, there were weekly chapel services on Thursdays at 11 a.m. Religious plays were also performed. For example, "The Rabbi From Tarsus" was performed on December 7, 1980. These religious organizations really add to the spiritual growth of the university.

Football is not just "one of the sports" at Ohio Northern University. According to the football players, it's a sport where friendships are important because you "can't depend on yourself." Jack Diamond, a senior civil engineering student from Oakhurst, New Jersey, has played four years of football with three of those years with the varsity squad. Jack agrees that without the friendships and, at least, the ability to get along with the other players, Ohio Northern could not have had a record of 6-2-1. So, whether it be losing a game to Wittenberg or winning a game over Capital, football is more than just a sport of passes, tackles, and touchdowns; it is a sport where friendships are made and team spirit endures.

-Dora Rump

'slow start' proves success for team

"The football season may have had a slow start," commented Tom Seif, a defensive end back for the Bears, "but the overall record of 6-2-1 was a success for the team." Seif, a sophomore biology major from North Robinson, Ohio, explains that it was the disappointment of the Bluffton tie coupled with the Wittenberg and Wooster losses that got the season off to a slow start. These were eventually surpassed by the major wins over Muskingum, Denison, and Canisius while in New York.

Dave McCallops, a junior civil engineering major and defensive end back from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, recalls that ONU was the leading offensive rushing team in the Ohio Athletic Conference this past year, and that the Bears biggest defensive asset was their defensive line.

The 1980-81 season saw special awards presented to senior Larry Egbert, the Thomas J. Smull Academic Award; senior Cliff Kramer, the Lewis F. Nemec Outstanding Defensive Player Award; senior Jim Augsburger, the Henry S. Siegel Outstanding Offensive Player Award; and Dave Temple and Derrick Fuqua, the Clyde A. Lamb Outstanding Freshman Award. Jeff Jenkins, senior wide receiver, was given the newly presented Bear Award along with Honorable Mention All-League.

Those receiving other all-league honors were Dave McCallops, defensive end; Cliff Kramer, defensive linebacker; Jim Augsburger, center; Larry Egbert, running back; Mike Cramer, offensive guard; and Scott Ingram, kicker.

The offensive and defensive coaching expertise of Wally Hood and Dick West, respectively, was essential in the team's favorable outcome. As McCallops states, "although we will be losing several offensive starting line men and defensive backs, we will be returning with eight lettermen, including all four starters, along with the prospect of promising incoming freshmen."

McCallops feel that if the team's vacant positions on the defensive back field can be filled, there is a very good chance of taking the OAC title in the 1981-1982 season.

'we seem to work well together'

The 1980 Women's Volleyball team had a reputation to uphold and they succeeded in doing so. The previous year's team were the State Champions in Division III, and received an at-large bid to the Nationals in California, where they placed ninth out of sixteen teams. Many of those who went to the Nationals were back again this year, with several freshmen and sophomores getting their first taste of collegiate competition. Team member, Joanne Raebuck, feels that "the freshmen are coming into college play much stronger than in past years because there is a growing interest in women's sports at the high school level." Because of this interest, the basic skills are acquired in high school. Stephanie Lutz feels that "this year's team is young and has a lot of skill and potential. We all seem to work well together." The team definitely worked well together because at one time they had a thirteen game winning streak going, until Eastern Michigan University put an end to it. The winning streak had broken the previous record of twelve set last season.

The Lady Bears also play many Division I and II teams such as Bowling Green and Xavier Universities along with their usual Division III competition. Many of these teams have fallen foe to the Bears in more than one instance. These teams give the Bears the type of competition that they meet at the state, regional, and national level. "Because of the lack of competition in the Division III," Roebuck commented, "it is hard to get psyched for a match compared to the competition in Division I and II, but we just 'go quazy' before our match anyway." Whatever going 'quazy' means, it must work because the Lady Spikes have finished another successful season.

After an impressive performance during the season, the volleyball team completed a long but worthwhile campaign in Spokane, Washington. After playing such top rated teams as Azusa Pacific, Puget Sound, University of California-Davis, Whitworth and Macalaster, the Lady Bears finished eighth out of twelve teams in the nation.

Joanne Roebuck, the Most Valuable Player of the Division III in Ohio, commented that "the competition was tough, as it was last year, because California teams are always tough." And tough it was because four of the teams Northern met were from the west coast. Teammate Stephanie Lutz felt that "it (the competition) didn't seem any tougher than last year because we weren't as nervous since we were there before." The top four or five teams participated last year and, of these teams, Northern faced Azusa Pacific, the defending Champion. ONU played extremely well before losing the match in two games, 16-14 and 15-12. Azusa Pacific went on to finish second in the nation.

Even though the season wasn't "all fun and games," as Lutz put it, many of the team members are looking forward to next year. Hopefully, once again we will find the pride and joy of ONU's volleyball team at the national tournament next year since all the members of the team were underclassmen.

'being champs' worth effort'

The 1980-81 cross country season may have begun with a slight drawback with no top runners like Mike Beecraft. But, the team's attitude of "support and pull for each other," echoed by Bill Young, managed to bring them to the top ranks of the NCAA Regionals.

Young, a two year cross country runner, has portrayed amazing abilities as he finished as the Most Valuable Runner. He saw the final success of the team due to their efforts of continual endurance. Young explained, "the season's not one long meet and teammates must be able to pick each other up and carry on."

Bill saw the loss to Wittenberg, as the most disappointing moment of the season. However, ONU came back at the Findlay Invitational and trampled Wittenberg by placing seven men ahead of them.

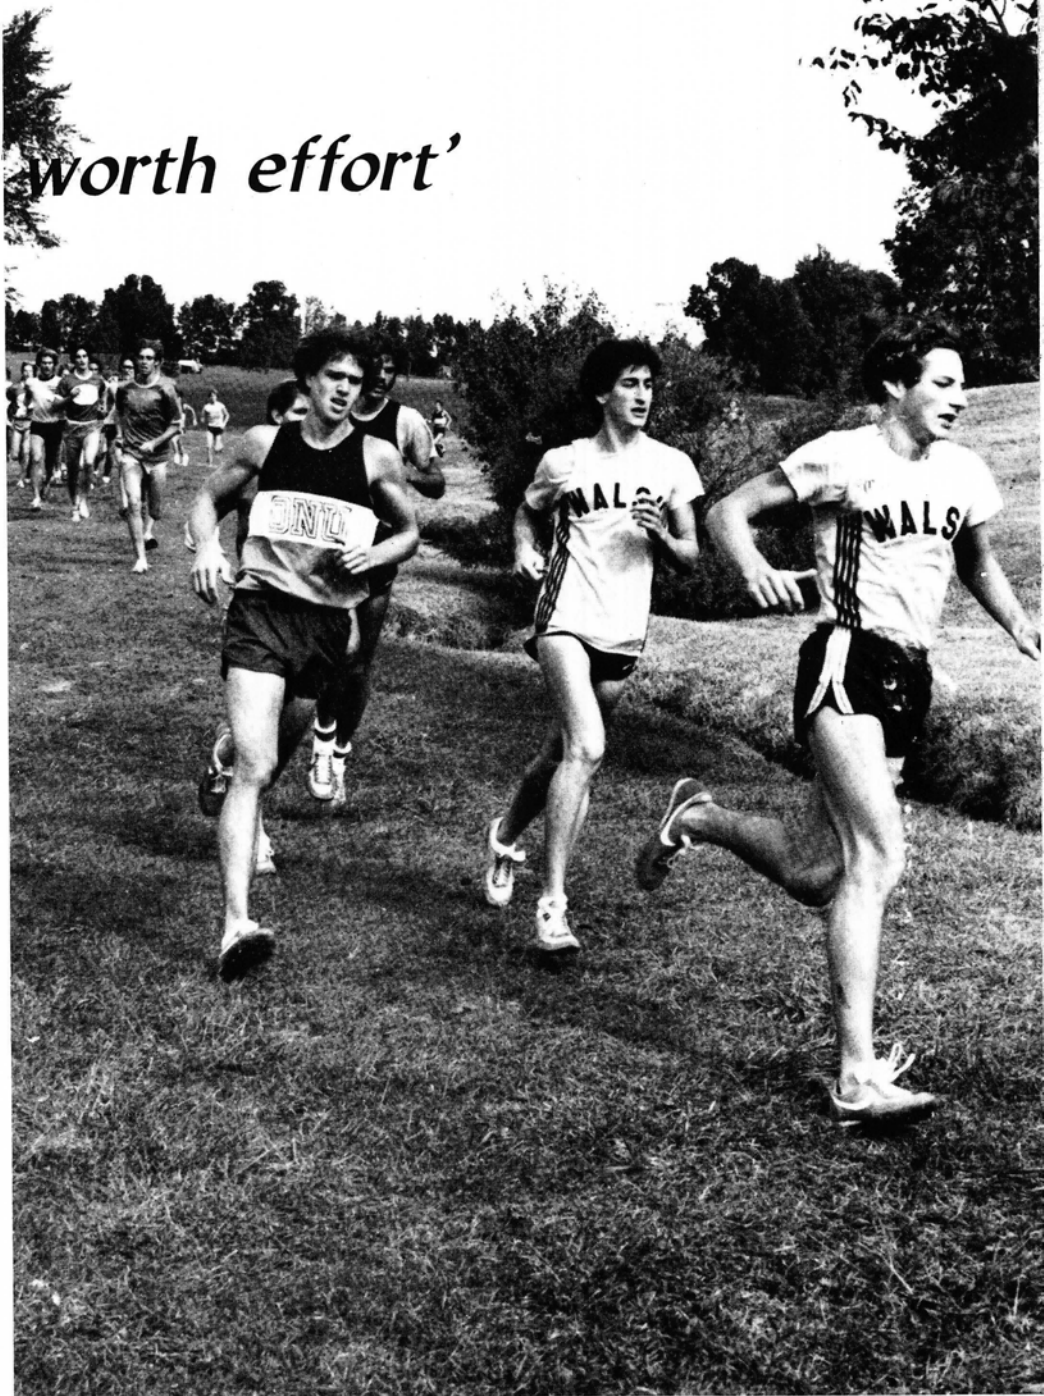

A surprise came when the Bears qualified for regionals. The teams sensational finale was due to the strong support of the group. Bill admits, "the prospect of being the champs is well worth the effort.*" soccer: 'a way to meet people'

The 1980 soccer team had a very successful season posting a final conference record of 4-1-1. Their record gave them a second place to Wooster.

Even though the team was very inexperienced at the college level of play, they did manage to defeat a few key teams such as Wooster. At one time, Coach Bhattacharya played eight freshmen with very good results. Three Freshmen, Jim McClure, Pete Guira, and Craig Douglas, each had nine, eight and six points respectively. When asked if he felt the lack of experience affected the team's performance, Douglas commented that, "we had a lot of freshmen who played soccer in high school which really helped out a lot." High school teams are apparently producing better players as was shown this year at Northern.

The season had its good and bad points. Douglas felt that one of the bad points of the season was "when we lost to Kenyon 3-1, during the regular season. We also lost our chance to go to the playoffs." A good point about the season was when "we shut out Wooster, 1-0," said Douglas.

This year's team improved on last years overall record with a 6-4-2 season record. Douglas commented that "playing soccer was a lot of fun and was a good way to meet other people." If the future soccer teams continue to have "a lot of fun" and have improving records, then Ohio Northern may have itself a tradition of conference champions to look back upon.

'... more pride in tradition'

During this past year, the enthusiasm and spirit of the underclassmen, steered by the experience and leadership of senior co-captains Kelly Moyer and Brad Beaman, contributed to the capture of the sixth Ohio Athletic Conference championship victory the Northern wrestlers have had in their last seven attempts.

As Kelly Moyer states, "Wrestling is an individual sport and the ideals of self-discipline and self-motivation allow for the personal achievement which, in the end, lead to the team's common goal of victory."

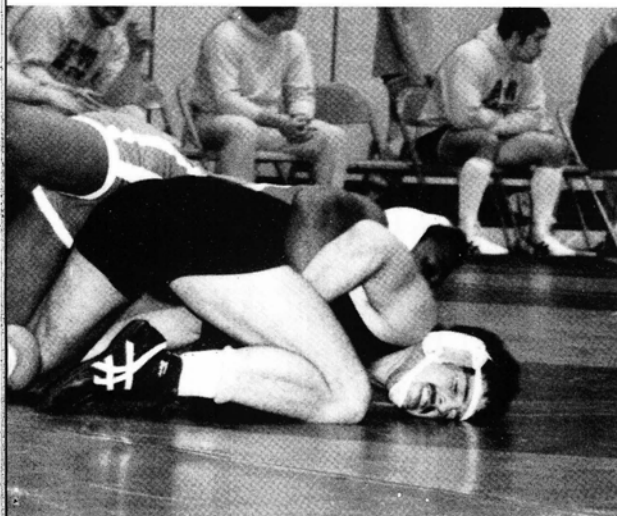

Moyer, a four year veteran of the ONU wrestling team in the 177 lb. weight class, held an individual record of 26-6 this season. The Bears' overall record was 14-5-3.

Moyer felt, "hard work, love for the sport, and dedication" all played important roles in the team's first rate record for the 1980-1981 season.

Brad Beaman, who was selected Most Valuable Wrestler of the tournament, Jim Shepherd, and Kelly Moyer led the Polar Bears in their OAC championship. Coach Dick West was honored as the OAC Coach of the Year.

Winning the OAC title may have come as a surprise to many, but not to the Polar Bears. Their steady improvement throughout the season helped them to grasp the title. Furthermore, the defeat by Capital did not cause the team to falter, only to come back even stronger.

The ONU grapplers overcame their initial problems this season to come out on top, and, as Kelly reveals, "in the last four years we've established more pride in tradition." This pride in tradition probably was the key to their successful year.

The members of the women's basketball team continued the winning spirit from the volleyball season, as they placed second in the state and first in the Western Satellite, where they were the top seed. During tournament action, ONU was led by outstanding performances from Jaime Nilles, who was elected to the all tournament team, Denise Callahan, Julie Zinn, and Robin Patterson. Patterson's performance was especially noteworthy since she is a newcomer to ONU.

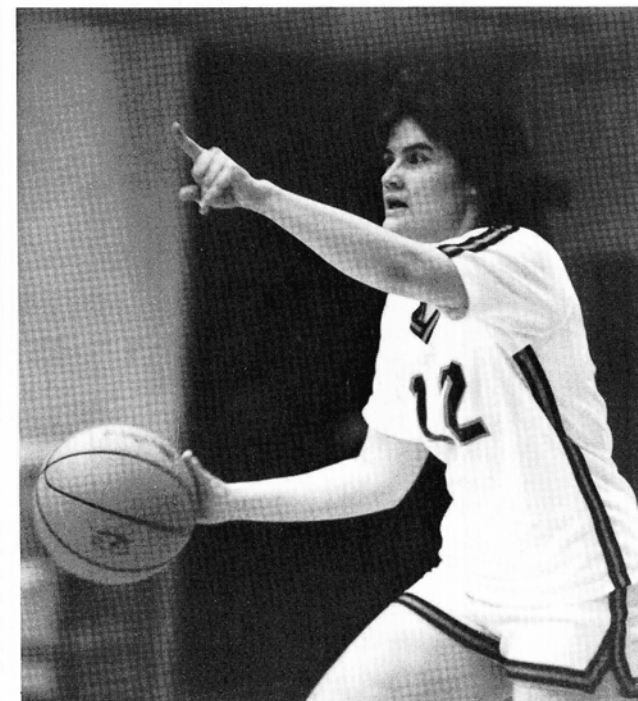

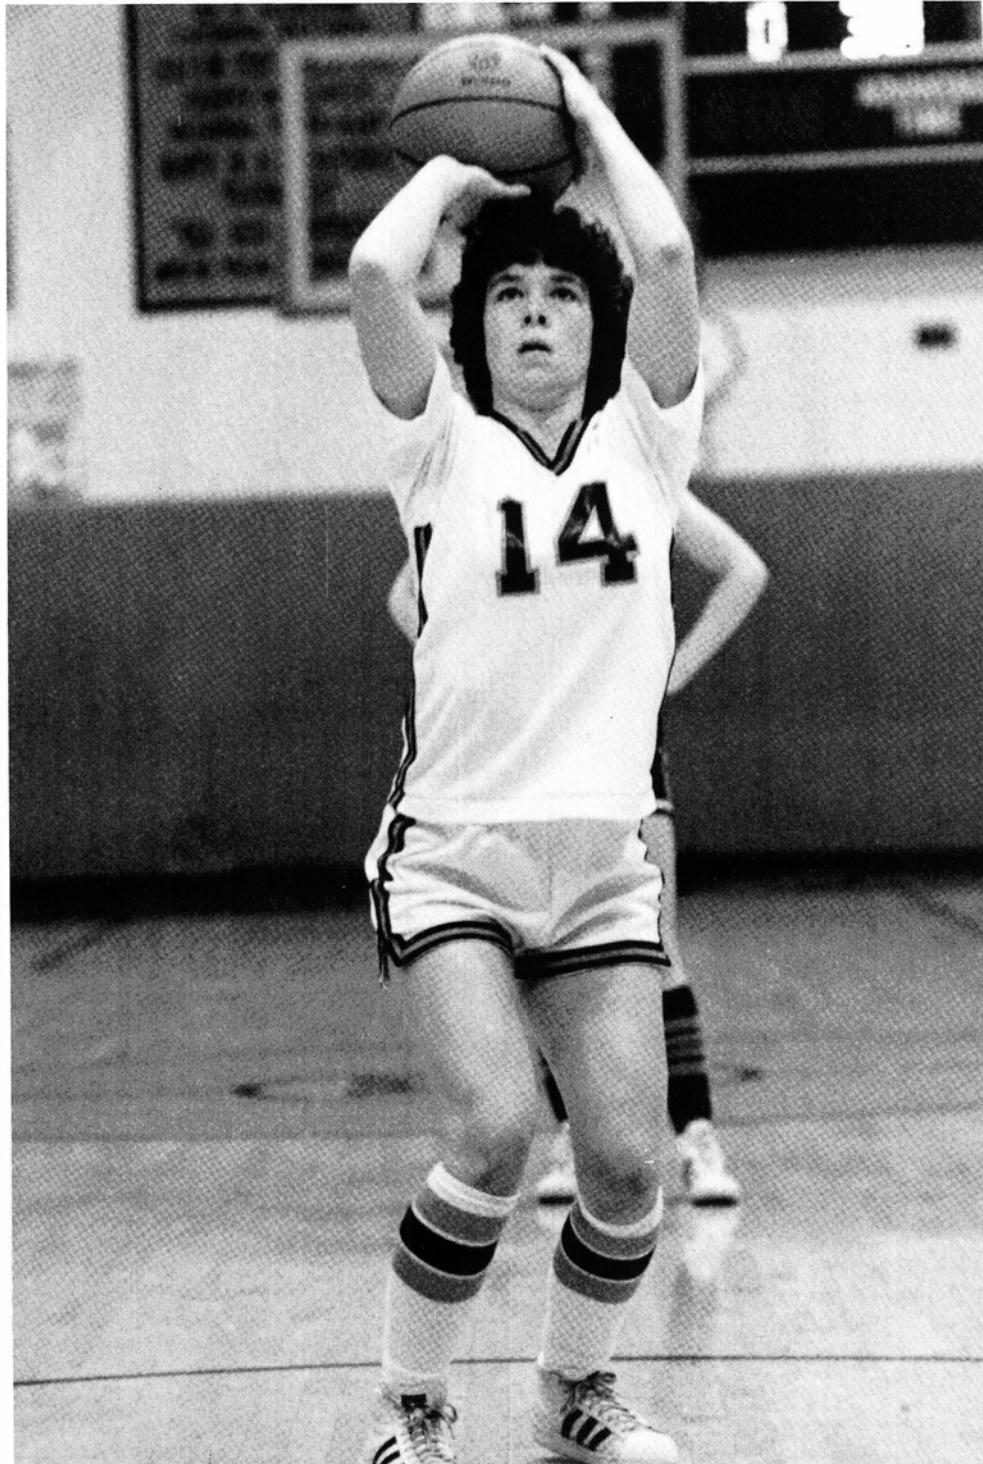

As a whole, the season was a success as the Lady Bears finished with a 16-6 overall record. Leading the team as captain, Jane Mowder commented that there "were a lot of sophomores and freshmen seeing playing time." However, this was to be expected, as the team had only one senior, Mowder and one junior, Julie Zinn.

Mowder felt that the team's record didn't really show how well the team played. She said that of the games lost, "it was just the case of the opposition wanting to defeat Ohio Northern and they wanted the game more." However, with a 16-6 season record brought about by a predominately young team, the Lady Bears' prospects for the future appear bound for success.

Those were the words of Mark Ouwerkerk. The reference that Ouwerkerk was making was to the Bears' 1979-1980 basketball season. That season, the roundballers beat the nation's number one ranked Division III team, Wittenberg, for the OAC championship. They also ended the season in the final poll in second place at the NCAA Great Lakes regionals. With all of these accomplishments, the fans were skeptical about whether the Bears would be able to equal and surpass last season because of the graduation of George Theiman and Pat Koesster. However, the team was ready for the new season.

ONU almost immediately put the skeptics to rest. In the beginning of the season, the Bears almost pulled off an upset over West Virginia. This served as a confidence builder as the Bears headed west to Oklahoma. There ONU showed expertise by defeating the Sooners, 73-69. It looked like the victory may have been too emotionally draining, causing the Bears to fall into a mild slump. They lost the first conference game which was a blessing in disguise because the team began to play to their potential soon after the loss.

Even though the final game for the Bears was not in a championship match, ONU should be proud of their feats. These accomplishments were due in part to the coaching philosophy of Gale Daugherty, who uses a strict man-to-man. The Bears' potential and coaching philosophy of Daugherty did not bring a championship back to Ada, but it gave ONU a stronger foundation to build upon in upcoming years.

-John Stephenson

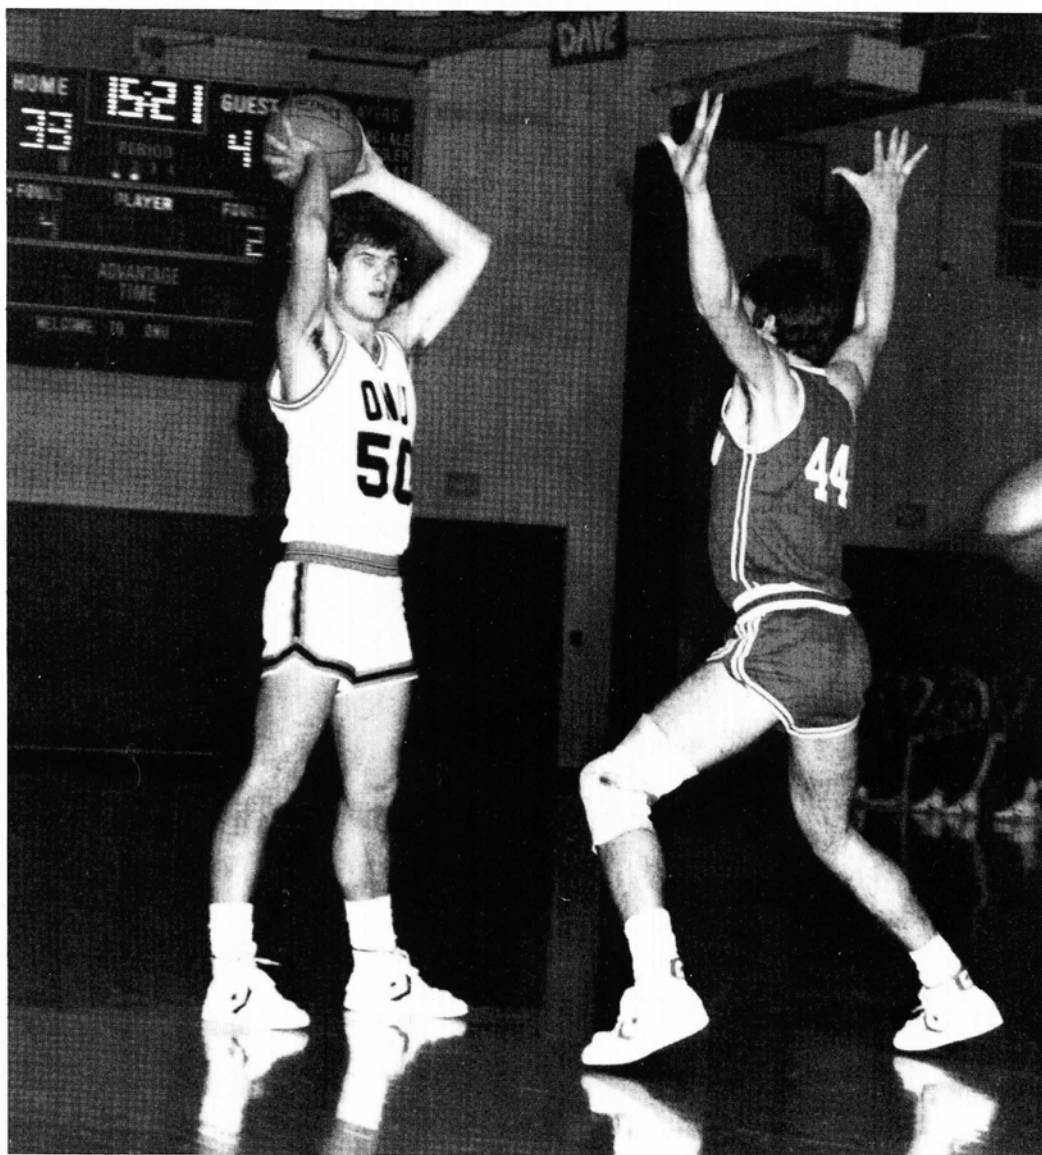

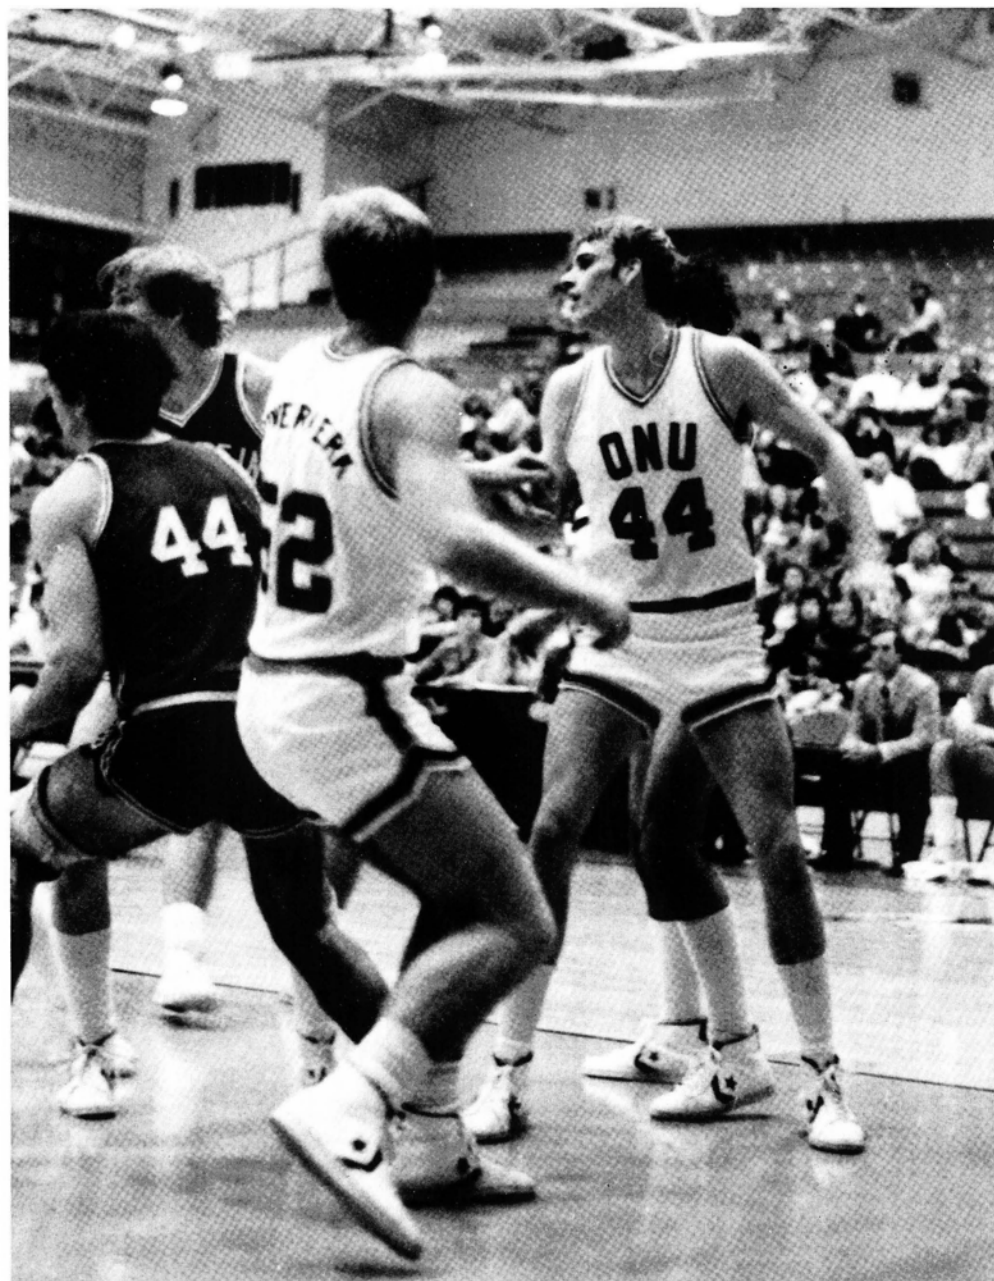

'the start of a new season'

The OAC championship play "was a whole new season," commented Kent Baker. The Bears had ended the regular basketball season on a sour note by losing to Muskingum and Denison. However, the Bears with an 18-7 record entered the OAC championship with a first round bye. In view of the fact of what happened to many of the college teams who received a first round bye, Baker stated that the bye was "a tremendous help for the Bears." Since the championship came during finals week, the bye gave ONU the needed time to put their exams behind them and concentrate on the championship.

The first game for the Bears was against Kenyon. This game displayed good coaching and smart basketball by Kenyon. However, the Bears defeated Kenyon, 61-55. The Bears moved on to play Baldwin-Wallace. After coming from a 12 point setback, the Bears lost the game on a last second shot. Baker stated, "this was the toughest loss I've ever experienced." A major factor influencing the Bears' play was the All-American junior center, Stan Mories, who was only able to play at a limited capacity because of an injury.

-John Stephenson

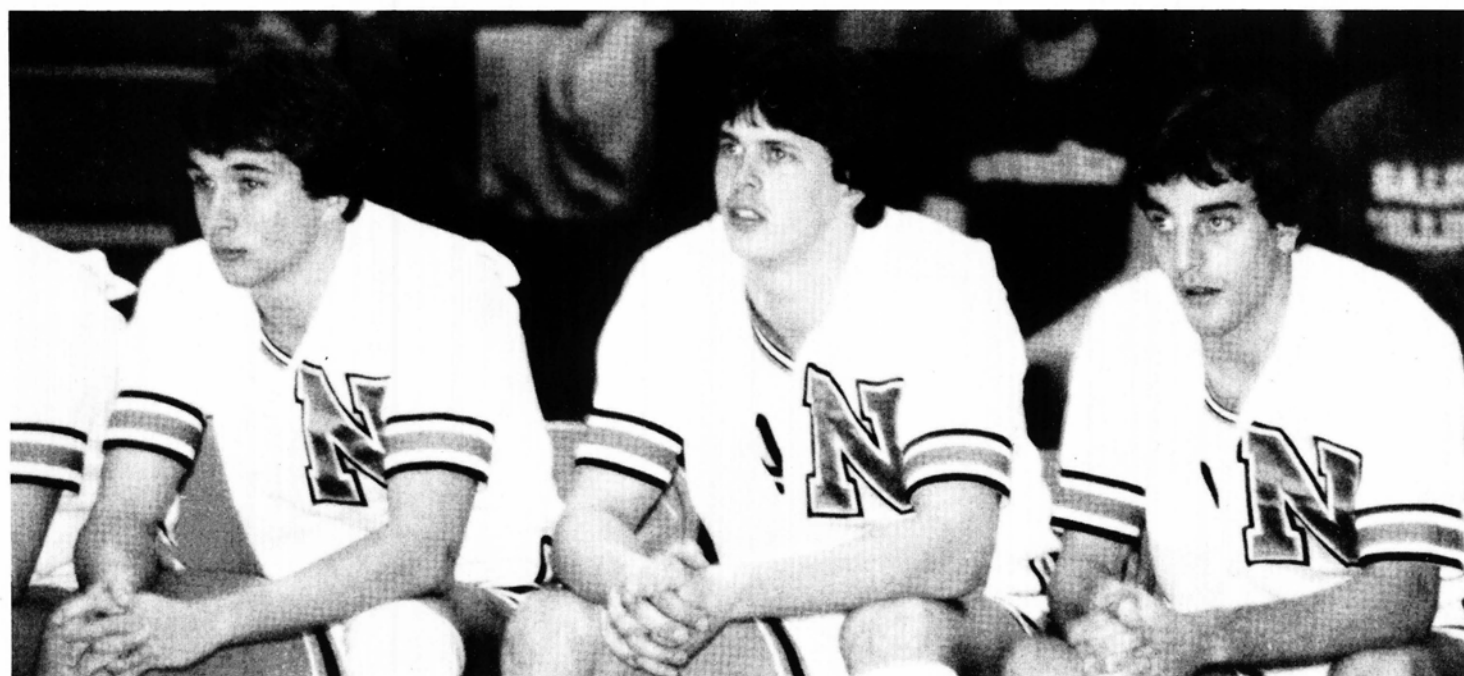

Clockwise from Far Left. Jay Meyer attempts to sink a free throw during the Wittenberg game. Meyer's free throw percentage for the season was an impressive 90%.

Stan Mories and Mark Ouwerkerk await the shot from the outside so they can get the rebound and make an easy two points.

^twe can only get better'

Progress—that is the best way to describe the Men's Swim team. The Bears, under the direction of coach Ty Clarke, compiled a 4-6 record and moved from last place in the OAC to seventh. Coach Clarke's theory stressed hard work. Commenting on this theory, freshman John Neumann stated, "the practice session were tough but when we got to the championship meet it paid off." Aside from Clarke, the team received unity and inspirational leadership through co-captains Brad Preston and Rich Aronson.

But the Bears' basic problem was a lack of depth. Even though the Bears did not have a winning season, there were some highlights. The Bears established all but one of the school's records—an accomplishment in itself. Another highlight was sparked by freshman Norm Baldwin. He is the Bears' first National qualifier. He placed 20th in the NCAA Division III in the 100 yd. backstroke. With these accomplishments and the high quality of incoming prospects "we can only get better," stated swimmer Tim Moser.

'everyone helps each other'

The 1980-81 Women's Swim Team certainly put in a lot of time and effort this past season. Practices were held both in the mornings and evenings. The intent was to strengthen the women physically, as well as to cut down on their overall times. It was all very necessary practice, but that didn't make going out to King-Horn at six o'clock in the morning any easier.

During the season, the feeling among the women was definitely one of competitiveness. Compared to last year, they were working three times as hard and with just as much zest for winning. Out of the 15 swimmers on the team, only two were freshmen. That certainly didn't prove to be a problem. According to teammate Trudy Bowen, "Everyone helped each other. There were no prejudices against age or ability."

Overall, there was a general attitude of well being among the women. Not only did it get them through their high points, but through their low points as well. This was quite evident when Trudy replied, "everyone just cheered each other on."

'it was a normal season'

The track season went about the way it was supposed to according to Jim Stotsky. "It was a normal season." The Bears were expected to place sixth in the OAC and that is where they finished. However, finishing in sixth place does not indicate a lack of effort on the part of the Bears. For example, Gary Maul and Tom Ferraro set record performances with Maul qualifying for Nationals. Other outstanding performances by Jesse Marlow, high jump, Scott Green, pole vault contributed greatly to the Bears' success.

Steve Kahla commented on rookie head coach Frank McDonald's emphasis on speed by saying, "it worked out good and it paid off in the end." This was especially true for Tony Lenhart and Mark Reynolds who set personal record performances at the OAC Conference.

'we are a relatively new team'

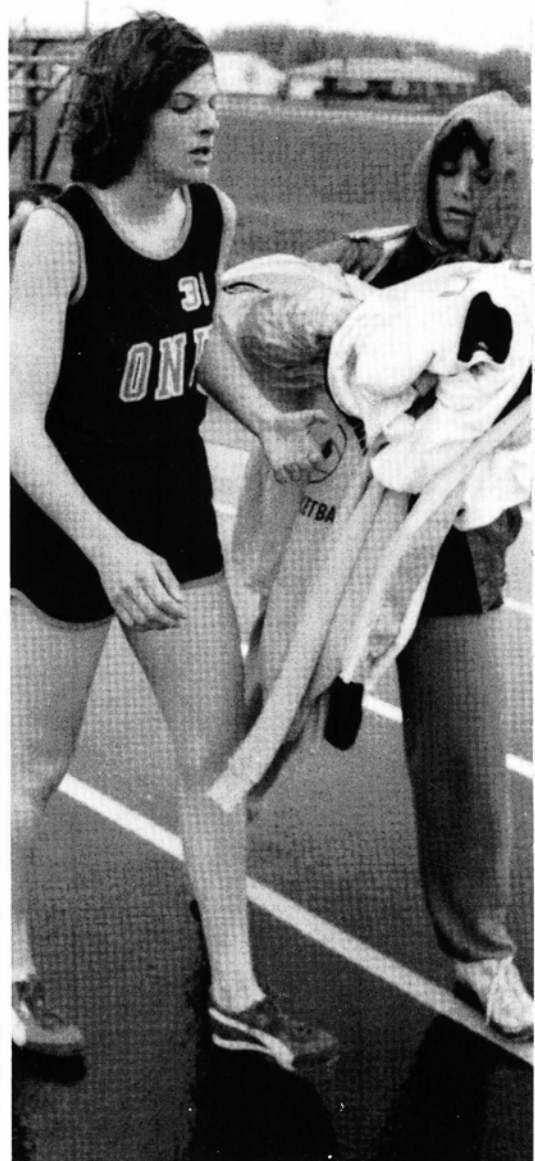

The women's track team had a record setting season. Many records were established because "we are a relatively new team," commented Carol Cover. Cover, herself was a member of the sprint medley which also set a new school record.

The Bears opened the season with a practice meet at Rio Grande. While there, ONU learned a few things about college track and field, even though they were defeated. Of all the teams that ONU ran against this past season, the Bears developed a personal rivalry with Defiance College. "It seemed like everywhere that we had a meet, they were there too," stated Cover. Due to this, a closeness was developed between ONU teammates in order to "root each other on" to beat Defiance.

Even though the team consisted of only 13 people, everyone did their best to develop a stronger program for future seasons.

'inexperience takes its toll'

After entering the state tournament as the number one seed, the women's softball team came home with a third place finish. Angie Thorne felt that "inexperience took its toll at tournament." There were 17 players on the team with 10 members seeing their first year of collegiate action.

Prior to the state tournament, the dominating characteristic of the team was its hitting. The leading hitters for ONU were Mary Ellen Myers and Jaime Nilles with a .368 and .317 batting averages respectively, while the team's average was .259. Another characteristic of the team was Pam Canady. Canady, the Bears' leading pitcher, was named to the All-Tournament team for her leading role in the Muskingum game.

Even though the Bears failed to reach the regionals, the members of this year's team have gained valuable experiences. Thorne commented, "we had a strong bench who got to play a lot, too." With the experience gained by the first year players and by those who returned from the previous year, Northern "ought to be a good team next year."

-Brenda K. Bell

Throughout the year the Baseball team looked forward to the 1981 season because they had not been seriously hurt by last years graduation. Senior Mark Thompson commented, "We had a solid infield coming back and a lot of good hitters." Because of the large number of returning players, the Bears hoped to repeat their ninth in the nation finish of last year. However, injuries benched starters Steve Page, Jack Diamond, Steve Paul, and Doug Rosenbauer for a short time, but the Bears endured.

After defeating Wooster at Wander Field midway through the season, the Bears led the division. Later in the season, Wooster defeated ONU in the first game of a double-header and tied the Bears in the second game which was called because of darkness. As a result, the Bears and Wooster were tied for the division. Regrettably though, the Bears went into a mild slump and finished second in the division.

Doug Oates would have been embarrassed had he swung at that pitch. Coach Strayer becomes "Capt. Hook" as Tim Cunningham found out the hard way. Mark Storrer wonders whether that pitch was the one he was looking for.

'we had a good time'

The Golf Team made a more intense team effort in the 1981 season. According to Jay Wagner and Mike Semon, "the team cared." This attitude is due to the fact that half of this year's team were Seniors. These experienced players, coupled with the rookie talent, enabled the Bears to move from sixth to fifth place in the OAC Championship. This movement was indicative of the Bears progress which had been evident throughout the season. A major factor in this progress was the result of new coach, Tom Holtsberry. Wagner and Semon both commented, "he made the season; we just cannot say enough about him."

-John Stephenson

'we were not bad but . . .'

The Bears were able to hold their position in the OAC this past season finishing as they did last year, in eleventh place. The poor performance was due to several factors, one in particular being the weather, which was typical for Ada. It was either too wet or too windy. In addition, the Bears lost the first few matches which put them into a losing frame of mind. Also, the lack of team leadership hurt the team according to Tim Abraham. Abraham went on to say that "we were not really bad, but we did not work very hard." However, the Bears had a bright spot in the season. Hinged on the fact that the conference as a whole was increasing in ability, this meant that ONU was also improving. With this improvement the men's tennis team may move up into the top ten in the OAC in the coming year.

'everyone's really close'

The 1981 women's tennis team had a rough schedule but their skills and determination prevailed as they ended the season with a 6-2 Division III record. As a team, they placed sixth in the state with Brenda Raffath and Lori Kinnison making it to the semi-final matches.

On reflecting back into the season, Kinnison said there were "two obstacles in playing tennis: your opponent and the weather. You can't really get psyched for a match because you usually don't know how your opponent plays. So you must know your own strengths and concentrate on them." These obstacles did not override the team because "everyone's really close."

In looking forward to next year, Kinnison noted that everyone will return except senior Tammy Haning. Haning has played the number one singles for four years and "she will be missed by a lot of people." The team must have even more determination to overcome the loss of Haning and the obstacles of their opponent and the weather, in order to call next season a success.

'we lost our crazies to graduation'

The Rugby Club, which has been on the ONU campus for three years, posted a 4-5-1 record in 1981. "The losses were close ones," commented Captain Jeff Fritz. The team lacked the personnel this past season because "we lost all our crazies to graduation." Injuries also cost the team early in the season with four players sidelined in the first game. The ideal location for a sport such as rugby is where there is a lot of mud. So possibly with the weather of Ada and the support of the students, rugby at ONU could become a more competitive sport on campus.

cheerleaders 'bring out the school spirit'

A lot of people may think that the cheerleaders only do cheers during the football and basketball seasons. This is not true, because they also make pep signs throughout the year for various teams and time some of the events during the track season.

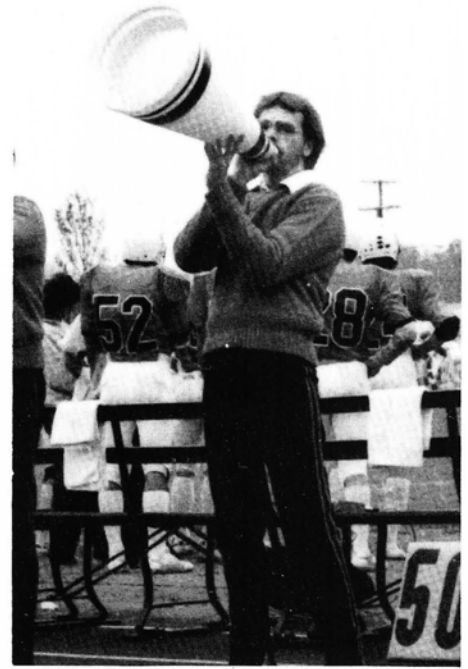

There are many reasons for wanting to be a cheerleader, but sophomore Kay Kaple describes it best as "wanting to gain support and spirit from the students to give to the team." An example of this was during the Wittenberg men's basketball game when the cheerleaders gave prizes for the most 'Spirited' group.

There is an adjustment required of the cheerleaders when moving from season to season. Kaple stated, "During football, the cheers are mostly from the sidelines, which are kind of crowded, while during basketball games we can go onto the floor during time outs which makes things look more impressive." Because of the more direct contact she feels that the crowd is more enthusiastic, "because a lot of the guys like to join in."

Whatever the sport may be, the cheerleaders are always there to "bring out the school spirit" and to cheer the athletes of ONU on to victory*

Legal journalism, as exemplified at the Pettit College of Law by three student publications—The Law Review, The Writ and The First Amendment—have helped build the reputation of the school. Each of these publications serve a different function. The Law Review, a national journal, is published quarterly and contains articles that keep the legal profession abreast of changes in the law. The Writ is devoted to informing students, faculty and alumni of recent events at the school. The First Amendment concentrates on satirical humor related to the law school. This year provided a relatively typical, unharried period for these publications.

460 students receive degrees

Commencement was held on Sunday, May 24, at Ohio Northern University. A total of 460 students received degrees from the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Pharmacy, Engineering, Business, and Law. Ceremonies were held in King-Horn Center for the University's 110th commencement program. Activities preceding commencement included a reception at the home of President DeBow Freed, a banquet for graduating students, and a worship service in English Chapel. Speaker for the event was Douglas Edwards, a correspondent for CBS news since 1942. Edwards currently anchors "CBS Mid-Day News" and several other radio and television newscasts. Edwards is a native of Ada, Oklahoma.

Studying should be done in a comfortable place. For Sandy Steahly, it's on the bed.

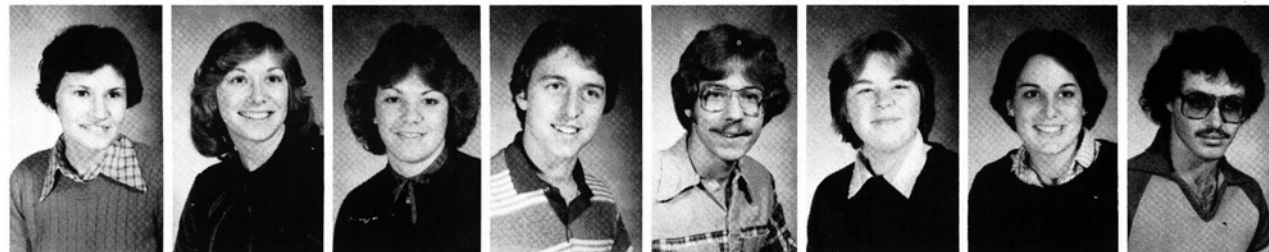

For Fred Plotzmann, a large table in the White Bear Inn is sufficient.

The 1981 Northern is published by Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio through the efforts of the students listed above.

A total of 2,674 books were printed with 582 of these mailed directly to 1980-81 graduates.

The paper is Gloss 191 stock and is trimmed to 9 x 12 inches in size.

All copy and headlines are set in Lydian Italic with Bold Lydian Italic as the emphasis type style. Caption copy and body copy are set in 8 and 10 point types respectively. Headlines are set in either 18 or 30 point type. Division pages only are set in 48 point Angeles Italic.

Tool lines are all company mounted with 6 point used throughout the book, but 30 point is also used in the index.

Studio portraits were taken by Davor Photo, Inc. of Bensalem, Pennsylvania. Approximately 2,000 frames of black and white film (Kodak Plus-X Pan 125 ASA and Ilford HP5 400 ASA) and 500 frames of various types of color film were exposed. All photographic developing and printing were done by Davor Photo, Inc.

The cover is Candlelight colored cloth with silkscreen applied Brown ink. The artwork was hand drawn to size. There is a one-eighth of an inch wide embossed line surrounding the artwork and the title itself is embossed. The endsheets are Chocolate colored paper. All four-color photographs in multiples 1, 2, and 3 were sized and mounted by the publisher.

Finally, a special word of thanks must be extended to Rise Ward for her help in producing this book.
